SATURDAY, JUNE 10, 1857.

KANSAS .- The telegraphic despatches of yesterday in relation to Kansas are of very startling import. They announce that the Free State Legislature met at Topeka, the Free State capital of the Territory, on the 11th inst.; that Robinson, the Free State Governor, had sent in his message, rccommending an immediate and thorough organization of the so-called State Government and a codification of the laws, and, furthermore, proclaiming his resolve to maintain his usurped authority at all hazards; that Gov. Walker, the lawful executive of those of war to the knife. The country will await Kansas, was on the spot and was plying his eloquence upon the populace in vain; and, finally, that the spurious Legislature was proceeding deliberately to carry into effect the recommendations of the starious Governor, in defiance of law, and in the very teeth of the constituted authorities.

This of conrse is rebellion of the rankest order. It is technically such a conflict of authority as the Dorr revolution in Rhode Island presented ten or fifteen years ago or as the Municipal revolution in New York city now presents, hurried, indeed, far beyond either of these examples in peril to civil liberty, not only by the more exasperating nature of the issue, but by the fact that the political and sectional passions of the nation flow into it. The hostile sections of the Union which have been waging in the halls of Congress such fierce and uncompromising strife against each other for the last few years have now, lashed by demagogues and zealots into redoubled wildness, met face to face on the plains of Kansas, and may at this moment be exchanging the signals of deadly combat. The significance of the event is truly fearful. The whole country may well hang upon it in breathless susfor the next breeze that comes foot from Kansas may bear tidings that will sicken the hearts of men and patriots.

In this grave juncture, heaven grant that Gov. Walker may bear himself as befits his deep responsibilities. His position is critical in the extreme. Much, very much, depends on his firmness and decision, and perhaps still more on his popular adroitness. He must do his duty, indeed, and do it thoroughly, not at the same time he must so temper fi-delity was address as to conciliate while he conquers. Otherwise his duty will be only half discharged. But a duty half discharged is better than total delinquency. Gov. Walker must both conquer and conciliate, if he can, but he must conquer at any rate. It is high time that this refractory spirit in Kansas was subdued. It cannot now continue without the most lamentable consequences to the cause of self-government. It cannot rage longer without overthrowing law in Kansas, and degrading the nation everywhere. The Topeka rebels must be put down at any cost; and Gov. Walker, in achieving the task, has only to see to it that the cost, whatever it is, rests upon their own heads alone. We hope and are disposed to believe that he will do it. Although we have no great opinion of his powers as a statesman, we do full justice to his tact and shrewdness as a politician, and have boundless con fidence in his ability to carry his point smoothly with a diversified border population, if he really sets himself earnestly about it. Unquestionably there is at present a demand for all the skill as well as all the energy he possesses. And we see no reason to doubt that he will bring both promptly into play. We trust that he may do so effectively.

It is clear that the robels at Topeka and their scat tered sympathizers in the Territory and throughout the North are acting a desperately false and silly part They profess to be putting themselves in opposition to the regular authorities of Kansas and to the Federal Government itself in defence of the right of the people of the Territory to frame their own constitution, while the truth notoriously is that the Topeka Constitution, in whose behalf they are raising this strife, was adopted a year and half ago at a little private Free State election, of which nobody but Free State men took the slighest notice, and only about seventeen hundred of them. They are thus lishe the Hopkinsville Press.

themselves the violators, and very flagrant violators too, of the right they plead in vindication of their treason. On the other hand, the regular authorities of Kansas, with the sanction of the Federal Government, expressly guarantee to the people of the Territory the free and complete exercise of the right to frame their own Consititution, and Governor Walker, fresh from the presence of the national Executive, calls upon the whole of them in the most ise it, without fear or reproach.

Why won't they go? They don't pretend to be afraid of either force or fraud. They have no apprehension whatever of the result. On the contrary, they boast that the Administration is secretly ending all its energies to make Kansas a free State, exactly what they want it to be. Why, then, do they raise the standard of rebellion on the eve of the peaceful consummation of their wishes? This is certainly an interesting question. They do it, ostensibly, because the Legislature under whose call the Constitutional Convention is to assemble is a "bogus" body, having, as they allege, been elected by outsiders; but, as they have uniformly recognized its legitimacy in regard to all subjects except that of slavery, and as their Governor, according to the telegraph, has even recommended the codification of its laws, this reason is manifestly a pretext, and a strangely contemptible one. What is the reason? We don't think it requires many glances or very sharp ones to perccive it. The Republicans, on the point of losing their shibboleth of "bleeding Kansas" through a stroke of party policy on the part of the Administration, cvidently feel compelled to make the most of a vanishing "occupation." Unable much longer to turn the sufferings of Kansas to political account, they hope to inflict a blow upon the party which is about to ruin them by tealing their thunder that will at least prove some ecurity for the future, if no indemnity for the past. They can't prevent Kansas from becoming a free State, if they would, but, on the sounding pretext of upholding the right of self-government, they can plunge it anew in civil war, and lay the evil at the door of the Democracy. And this they seem resolved to do. The bearing of the Topeka revolutionists and the language of their instigators in the North render no other inference possible.

But the gravity of the crisis is not diminished by the baseness of the motives which produce it. Far from it, Whatever may be Gov. Walker's private wishes as a partizan, it is nothing more than his plain duty as the lawful Governor of Kansas to crush the Topeka movement, and he will not be blameless if he doesn't. And when we consider that his private wishes as a partizan coincide with his duty, we may be tolerably sure that his duty will be performed. And if it is, there is room for the most serious apprehensions, and for little else. Nothing but the submission of the free State rebels to his authority promises to avert a hostile collision, and, unhappily, they have gone so far that the consequences of submission may seem more terrible than the next intelligence from Kansas with profound solicitude.

THE LAMB OF THE FOLD. BY MES. F. B. M. BROTHERSON.

I know a foid, a happy fold, Where household lamhkins play, Where joyous tones of childish mirth Reecho through the day; Love's smilling heaven above it bends, Mirrored in ellver streams, And on its springing verdant turf With radiant heauty gleams.

Within this fold the pattering sound Of iittle feet are heard, And many a curl of shining hair By spring's soft breeze is stirred: Unshadowed is each fair young brow, Undimmed each flashing eye, And life seems but a happy dream As Its glad hours go hy.

It is the home of trusting love, And as the lisping prayer Is murmured from the rosy iip I deem the angels there: No fairer trophy canst thou bear, Oh, thou of shining wing,
Than the sweet prayer from childhood's lip, A pure heart's offering.

Lambs, precious iambs, I love you all. Far down within my heart I keep each little form enshrined, Of life so fair a part; I keep the echo of each foot, The pressure of each hand, The murmurlugs of each happy heart Amid that household band.

I search my heart fuii oft to know Whose linage deepest ites, Whose winuing ways and gentle smiles Seem clothed in loveilest guise. And down, far down amid its depths I find a biessed name, One that, four happy months ago, A cherub came to claim.

She is all gentleness and love. And o'cr her infant face
The native purity of heaven
Gieams with its rarest grace, While the soft liuks of shining hair Rest fondiy on a hrow That in the hetter land will wear No lovelier look than now.

When the baptismai water gleamed Upon her hahy hrow, With look of love she gazed above. Sealing the murmured vow, As though she heid communion sweet With spirits fair and bright Who left awhile their radiant home To bathe her soul in light.

Oh, cheruhim and seraphim! Be round her night and day, And from the flowers that deck her path Piuck every thorn away; Keep her iu unstained purity, Our wee lamb of the fold. And o'er her every path of life Your guardian wings unfold.

Shepherd of Israel! whose fond hand So oft hath hieseings given, Be thine our lamb's, to dwell with thee, Amid the fold of Heaven. When life is o'er, by crystal streams, 'Mid pastures green and fair, May cach endeared and cherished form An augel's radiance wear.

CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM IN CALIFORNIA .- According to the last intelligence from California, the Legislature of that State has passed an act submitting to the people the question of the propriety of calling a convention to revise the constitution. The ostensible object of this movement is to enable California to legalize her public debt, and resume the payment of interest upon it. There are those, however, who conceive that its real and leading object noneyed and persuasive terms to come up and exer- is nothing less than the division of California into three States. This notion is probably groundless. Such a project is no doubt talked of in certain California circles, as it has been ever since the State was organised, and as, indeed, it was before, but we fastest boats afford, and affords luxurious accommothink it can hardly be seriously entertained by any considerable portion of the people. It is not reative to the wants of travelers. sonable to suppose that it is, for if public opinion in California were sufficiently in its favor to justify the attempt to realize it, there would of course be no good reason for concealing it under a pretext. Constitutions are not made or modified simply by a parliamentary manœuvre, matured in sccresy, and sprung at a lucky moment upon a handful of nodding delegates, but are the fruit of thorough and open discussion and of the final deliberate choice of the whole people. It may safely be taken for granted that in this country no set of politicians would be silly enough to submit a call for a constitutional convention to the people without daring to confess the modifications they proposed to effect. The thing would be an absurdity. We accordingly conclude that the ostensible object of the California convention is much nearer the real one than is supposed in certain quarters.

> Necessity seems on the point of adding another to her countless brood of inventions. The war with China, threatening as it does to wax hotter, and probably interrupt the export of China's great and pecufiar staple, has turned the thoughts of England to the practicability of obtaining tea from India. The scheme is considered not by any means visionary. There is said to be an almost unbounded extent of country at the foot of the Himalaya range suitable to the growth of tea of the finest and most valuable description. A correspondent of the London Times states that "the Indian Government is making great efforts to promote the growth of tea in these districts, or, at all events, is making the most liberal offers to men of enterprise. The terms on which they offer the land, provide plants, and assist settlers in every way, make success almost a certainty, and success during the first few years must lead to princely revenues eventually." This is doubtless pictured a little too warmly. Although it is not likely that the tea culture in India will labor under the same or as great difficulties as it does in some other extra-China parts, South Carolina for example, yet we think its perfect success even in India highly improbable. The prospect is anything but encouraging. Tea is certainly less congenial to India than cotton is, and England, with a thousandfold stronger motive to impel her, has, as the whole world knows, made but a beggarly show at the cultivation of cotton there. For all practical purposes, it has been a failure, and the projected tea culture

> THE AMERICAN CHURCH MONTHLY, for June, fully sustains the reputation of its accomplished editor, the Rev. Henry N. Hudson. The opening ful and eloquent sketch of that honest and fearless reformer. The second article is a continuation of the interesting history of the Church in Scotland. The third, "Interdependence," from the powerful pen of Hugh Davy Evans, discusses some of the social evils of the day. The fourth, "Christianity and Modern Infidelity," is brief but strong and vigorons. The next article is an admirable analysis and strong commendation of Craik's Search of Truth. Those who can appreciate and enjoy pure and nervous English, such as few living writers can furnish in the perfection to which Mr. Hudson has attained, should subscribe for this monthly. The New York Express concludes some judicious remarks on the destiny of free and slave labor in this country as follows:

Providence, in due time, will regulate all these things in its own good way—without much regard to sectionalism North or South.

The New Orleans Crescent says this "would be very good, were it applicable," but thinks "there is no applicability in it to the times that are upon the country." We hope our friend of the Crescent doesn't think that "the times that are noon the country" are so formidable that even Providence can't "regulate" them.

THE MUNICIPAL DIFFICULTIES IN NEW YORK We give this morning a full account of the difficulties between the State and Municipal authorities of New York. Our readers are aware that there have been for some time two set of policemen, one called the Municipal police, of which Mayor Wood is the head and front, and the other the Metropolitan police, which is appointed and governed by a Board of Commissioners created by the new charter, and over which Simeon Draper presides. Mayor Wood has refused to acknowledge the authority of this new organization, contending that the charter was unconstitutional. Both the Superior and Supreme Courts have decided against him, and the case is now before the Court of Appeals.

The present difficulty has arisen from the same cause. The Street Commissioner died. The old charter prescribed that the vacancy should be filled by appointment by the Mayor, but by the new law it devolves upon the Governor of the State to fill the vacany. The latter appointed Mr. Connolly, but Mayor Wood drove him by force out of the office.

NEW BOATS-LAUNCH .- Mr. Nadal, one of our best and most enterprising boat builders, will launch at 4 o'clock this evening, from his yard near the saw nulls, Capt. Parr's new boat. It is a sternwheeler, and intended for low water. The hull is article, "Latimer, Bishop and Martyn," is a beauti- 145 feet long, beam 31 feet, and depth of hole 41/4 feet. Messrs. Inman, Gault & Co. are building the machinery, and Downs, Mitchell & Co. the cabin. Mr. Nadel has also another large boat on the stocks for the Missouri river, which he is building for Capt. Baldwin. It is to be 210 feet long, 33 feet beam, and 6 feet hold. Messrs. Glover & Son are building the engines for it, and Messrs. Downs, Mitchell & Co. the cabin. It will be ready for launching in five or six weeks.

U. S. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY-THE TRIAL OF AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS .- It will be seen from the following dispatch of II. S. By way of Havana we have advices from Vera Cruz to the 8th inst. Another conspiracy against President Comonfort and his ministers had been discovered in the city of Mexico. The conspirators, instigated it is supposed by the Spanish Government, were agents and supporters of the ex-Dictator Santa Anna. Their plan to get possession of the Government and murder the President was happily discovered and frustrated, and the ringleaders were promptly punished. The returns indicate that Gen. Comonfort is reelected President by an overwhelming majority. Great defensive preparations were going on at Vera Cruz, in anticipation of the threatened

THE END OF THE U. S. BANK .- Last week all the old books, papers, drafts, checks, letters, etc., that had been preserved on file as vouchers, in the long course of the immense business of the U.S. Bank, were sold in a heap, in Philadelphia, and purchased by a papermaker, to be reground and manufactured into new tock. The whole mass weighed over forty tons. Ten tons of this vast amount is of correspondence, antograph letters of the first statesmen, politician-, and financial men of this and other countries. Drafts upon the Rothschilds for hundreds of thousands of dollars, certificates of stock transferred to the leading bankers in Europe, checks and drafts from Clay, Webster, Adams, Calhonn, Houston, Crockett, Cass, &c., all lie scattered, ready for the important transformation into clean, unsullied white paper. This huge mass of books and papers strikes the visitor with astonishment. A faint idea may be formed of the colossal character of the institution which at one time occupied so important a part in the history of the country. What a vast storehonse these papers would be for individual histories, and, perchance, they would illustrate some unexplained passages in the history of the political par-

SECRET SOCIETIES IN FRANCE.—The trial of the persons charged with belonging to a society, the object of which was to upset the French Government, has just terminated. Thirty-nine were convicted and six were acquitted, but, as the punishment on the men is light, varying from six months to three or four years' imprisonment, it may be questioned whether the charge against them was really believed. The main support of Louis Napoleon is the army, and we see it announced by the organs of his Government that the peace footing this year is 600,-000 men. It is still believed that Gen. Cavaignac and other leading Republicans, who were members of the Provisional Government in 1848, will become candidates for Paris at the approaching election. In the event of success, it will be interesting to know whether they will swear fidelity to the Empe-

FROM CALIFORNIA .- We have been informed by one of the parties interested, that there is now being stored in the warehouses at San Francisco many hundreds of tons of gold bearing quartz to be shipped to New York as ballast in returning ships. The quartz is to be dissolved in water, in large quantities, and all the gold precipitated. The "liquid fliat" thus accumulating in immense quantities is said to be very valuable, as a base, for building and ornamental purposes. The gentleman engaged in the above enterprise is a resident of California, and one of the most extensive operators there in quartz mining. He says, that, from his own experience and knowledge, not one-tenth of the gold is saved by any of the known processes in California. Hence his reasons for adopting Benjamin Harding's method of dissolving, &c., as above stated.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lexington and Big Sandy Railroad Company, held in Mount Sterling, on Wednesday, the 17th inst., the following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year, viz: Joseph Bondurant, of Montgomery; G. W. Crawford, of Carter; D. B. Groom, of Clarke; John B. Payne, jr., of Fayette; J. M. Nesbitt, of Bath; and D. K. Weis, of Greenup. At a subsequent meeting of the Board, Richard Apperson, Esq., was elected President.

A GREAT COUNTRY.-Jefferson Davis, in his late speech at Jackson, Miss., mentioned, as an illustration of the vastness of our national domain, the fact that, during the four years of the late administration, more land was ceded by the General Government for internal improvement and other legitimate purposes than a third of France, and still we retain a public domain equal to the entire area of Europe.

CENTRAL KENTUCKY FAIR-Change of Time.-In equence of the commencement exercises of Centre College occurring during the third week in September, the directors of this Association have been compelled to change the time for holding their fair to Tuesday, August 11.

The Government has tendered the directors of the Clay Monumental Association the use of the Newport brass band. This band is one of the best if not the very best in the United States, and it will greatly add to the other attractions of the coming 4th of July.

ANOTHER VIGILANCE COMMITTEE. - A number of men of Brunswick, Va., have formed themselves into a vigilance committee. The following resolutions were passed at the first meeting:

Resolved, That a committee of vigilance, comp of fifteen citizens of this county, be appointed by the chair, whose duty it shall be to ferret out all Abolition agents and emissaries, and to use every exertion to bring these disturbers of the public peace to justice.

Resolved, That this meeting offer a reward of one thon and dollars for the apprehension and conviction in the courts of our county of any white person who may be found tampering with our slaves.

TOBACCO IN RICHMOND .- A letter from Richmond, Va., dated the 14th, says:

A meeting of commission merchants was held last evening to deliberate upon the irregularities in the existing mode of inspecting tobacco. Its object was chiefly to prevent the listing of tobacco before its arrival at the warehouses or in the city, and one of the resolutions adopted requests the inspectors to relinquish this practice at once. They also resolved to establish a Tobacco Exchange, and the duty of selecting a room for the purpose is confided to a committee of merchants.

Washington, June 15. Private letters from a member of General Santa Anna's family state that this veteran and successful chief will return to Mexico and head a revolution within ninety days. At the head of bis own party, which has never been entirely crushed, and ailed by the Church and all who are discontentially the Computation of the sort of the content and hostile with the Computation of the sort of the ed with the Commonfort Government and hostile to the Constitutional Government, which is to be esto the Constitutional Government, which is to be established in September, Santa Anna may again be favored by fortune, and perhaps carry into effect his scheme for re-establishing the empire under the guaranties of the Church and the army.

The election of a President, under the new constitution of Mexico, was in progress at the last dates, and it appeared probable that it would result in the choice of Gen. Commonfort. In September the new constitutional government is to be inaugurated. It is prohable that Santa Anna intends to make his is probable that Santa Anna intends to make his Santa Anna is prepared to sell one-half of Mexico in order to obtain means to rule over the other. He would rather fight Mexicans than Apaches, and will, therefore, sell the whole country which is subject to Indian depredations, and throw in Lower California and Thouantepec. Gen. Commonfort would, no doubt, anticipate him in this movement, but he is debarred by his own decree from alienating territory without the assent of Congress, from which it could not be obtained.

The question occurs whether Santa Anna in his The question occurs whether Santa Anna in his expedition to Mexico is to be aided by Spain? It appears very probable that he is to have aid, directly or indirectly, from the Spanish naval and military forces in Cuba. THE TOMB OF TASSO.—The genial and accom-plished foreign correspondent of the Newark Advertiser, under date of Rome, May 8th, 1857, describes the final inurning of the ashes of the poet Tasso as follows:

After mouldering undisturbed for 262 years under the simple slab placed over them by the pious monks of St. Onofrio, whose kindly ministrations soothed his last hours, the remains of the poet Tasso have at last been transferred to the long-projected tomb provided for them in a new chapel of the same sanctuary. The noteworthy solemnity was performed on the anniversary of his death in presence of a large commission of civil, ecclesiastical, and academic dignitaries, under the superintendence of Prince Orsini, Senator of Rome. Archbishop Bedini conducted the religious rites, the crowded church was clothed in deep mourning, and numerous symbols of the virtues of the poet were fitly displayed in a sumptuous catafalco raised in the midst of the nave. The old leaden coffin contalning the remains was so much decayed that it was raised with difficulty; but the poetic ashes were carefully transferred to the appointed nrn, which also holds a certified memorandum of the ceremonial in a glass tube, and deposited in the ceremonial in a glass tube, and deposited in the monnment.

This memorial of Italy's most charming poet was This memorial of Italy's most charming poet was conceived some thirty years ago by the sculptor Fabris, whose unflagging zeal has finally achieved it with the tardy aid of the present Pope and some other sovereigns. The chapel is rich with illustrative inscriptions, frescoes, marbles, cornices, &c. The freescoes recall such incidents as the complimentary public reception accorded to him on his last visit to Rome, his subsequent presentation to Clement VIII, in the Vatican, when the laurel crown was decreed to him—"that from you it may receive as much to him—"that from you it may receive as much honor as in times past it has conferred on others"— and the administration of the Papal benediction on and the administration of the l'apal benediction on the dying man, surronnded by the sympathising fathers of the monastery. This crowning scene of a sorrowful life superseded the appointed coronation in the Capitol. The monument symbolizes both his faith and his vocation. On a broad base, covered with bas-relief portraits of his most eminent friends, rises a richly inscribed niche containing a portrait statute leaning against the trunk of a laurel—which a fond father early fancied would become green again a fond father early funcied would become green again for the glory of his son—in the glowing moment of invoking celestial aid for the opening epic in his

O heavenly muse that not with fading hays Circiest the hrow, &c.

The "blessed Virgin," accompanied by a choir of angels, sheds her benediction upon the undertaking from the marble clouds which surround the statue mausoleum. The academicians subsequently had quite another celebration of the anniversary in the amphitheater near Tasso's oak, consisting of a disamphitheater near Tasso's oak, consisting of a discourse, recitations from his poetry, and an original hymn by Madame Mille, quite worthy of the occasion. I should be glad to give you a translation; but no one not intimately familiar with the uice and mingling shades of meaning—the extreme delicacy of the diction and the prosedy, which harmonize exquisitely with the passion and imagery they clothe—can transfer all the mother-of-pearl tints of Italian poetry; or unite the sice links of harmony in a language, the untractable parts of whose prosedy are guage, the untractable parts of whose prosody are founded upon principles so different from those of our own.

Tasso has been singularly fortunate as an author. Though rendered miserable through life in consequence of an impracticable passion, he enjoyed the fullest measures of contemporary admiration, and time, which subverts all partial awards, has confirmed his, so that his works continue to receive their full portion of appreciation. If not the first around full portion of appreciation. If not the first among the literary Italians in native endowments, he was confessedly superior to any of them in personal and intellectual accomplishments. He was thoroughly learned in all the learning of his time; and Voltaire, who disparaged Dante, thought that if he had not been the Homer, he might have been the Plato or Calileo of the age. Capt. Abram Butord, of Woodford, has accepted the Chief Marshalship of the day upon the 4th of July next, the day set apart for the laying of the corner stone of the Clay Monunuent, and we heartily congratulate one citizens and the Directory of the Association upon this fact. Capt. Buford is an old and experienced military officer, having served in the army of the United States for a number of years, and we know of no gentleman in Kentucky who is better calculated to take charge of a large body of men upon an occasion of this kind. He enters upon his duties with all that enthusiasm and earnestness which are so eninently characteristic of his uature. which are so eninently characteristic of his nature, and our readers may rest assured that he will do all that one unan can do to make the ceremonies of the 4th pass off in a manner worthy of Kentucky and of the illustrious statesman in whose honor they will be performed. The people of this section of the State are feverishly anxious that the pageant upon this august and suggetive funeral occasion should be of such a character as to render its memory ineffaceable with all those who witness it, and we assure them that Capt. Buford is the man to effect this desired result if it can be effected at all.

Further Excitement in Richmond .- The Richmond Dispatch states that rumors were circulated on Saturday in that city to the effect that an attack was to be made on the city jail at night, with the design of taking out Thomas J. Hardy and subjecting him to the punishment laid down in the code of Judge Lynch. A report that the child whom Hardy bru-tally assaulted was dead added to the excitement and gave rise to apprehensions that a violent de-monstration would take place. Accordingly, the entire regiment of military was ordered to assemble at the jail to prevent disorder it need be by the meth od adopted recently at Washington. A considerable number of persons congregated about the jail at night, most of them led thither by motives of curiosity, and a large proportion being boys, but nothing of a warlike nature was apparent. The Mayor, however, read the riot actand commanded the crowd to disperse, an order which was obeyed without un-

MESSRS. EDITORS: Being about to leave the city under an engagement of some standing to be absent a couple of weeks, I have a parting word for our revisionist friends. Evidently these men have come to be possessed with the idea that their names are exceedingly formidable—hence their eagerness to have a tilt with everything; a spirit that sooner or later is always destined to meet with discomfure and disgrace. What could be more gratuitous than their coarse, arrogant, and vindictive assault on my little harmless notice of Dr. Judd's Review? Promptly, at first, came their eager replies, waxing louder and longer on the astonished ear. The gentlemen have now, however, taken a breathing spell of a week—it may be that they have retired from the contest. Let us improve the lull in the storm to take our bearing and find out where we are.

As this may be the winding up of the discussion, I beg leave to eall public attention to some admissions and also to some revelations which the gentlemen have made.

sions and also to some revelations which the gentlemen have made

First, They admit that Dr. Judd, like Dr. Maclay, stood fair up to the time of his difficulty with the Secretary of the Bible Union.

I give the gentlemen no credit for this admission, for it is but half the truth. Letters from Messrs. Bell, Campbell, Everts, and Edmunds, as published by Dr. Judd, show that the Louisville Revisionists held on convulsively to Dr. Judd for one month and eleven days after his dismission by the Bible Union, and with he tree hymericans from Bible Union, and until he tore himself away from them. In relation, therefore, to Dr. Judd, our Lou-isville Revisionists differ slightly from the fox in the fable. He thought badly of his grapes because he couldn't get them; they think badly of Dr. Judd because they couldn't hold on to him.

Secondly. The gentlemen admit, though not very gracefully, that for the translation of a certain class of words (including baptizo and other controverted terms) the Bible Union has violated its own solemn bladges hyperseculing one role for Impurginist pledge hy prescribing one rule for Immersionist Revisers and another for non-Immersionist Revisers. We offer no comment on this admission.

Thirdly. The gentlemen though pointedly inter-rogated have not denied that the Bible Union has in regated have not defined that the Diole Onion has in its service as a reviee a scholar who could and did in sober discourse write for English the words, "masculinity," "feminimity," "objectional," cc. Oh, ye English translators! ye compeers of Milton and Bacon and Shakspeare, ye did your work pretty well, but ye were deficient in Biblical science, but rejuice year for help has come to you at least or the property of the come to you at least or the property of the property o joice now, for help has come to you at last.

But our defenders of revision have made revelations as well as some admissions, which we think worth preserving.

First, They have revealed to us their own want both of ability and idelity both as defenders of revision and as managers of revision. This I am aware is a grave charge, and that good and sufficient proof alone will vindicate the making of it. I now propose to furnish just that kind of proof. Let it be borne in mind that I charge upon these gentlemen a want of ability and fidelity both as defenders and as managers of revision.

1st. They have proven their weakness and in-sincerity by denouncing in me that of which they are notoriously guilty themselves. For instance, they denounce my anonymous notice of Dr. Judd's Review in the strongest terms—I am a coward, bushfighter, skulker, sneak, &c. They say of revisionists: "They do not make assaults on any one nor upon anything under the cloak of the coward, the anonymous. They take their station openly and fairly before the public."

Anonymous. They take their station openly and fairly before the public."

Now we might pity the weakness of this display which they make of themselves, were we not compelled to despise its instancerity. I need not allude again to the anonymous Revisionist report, perversion, and endorsement as perverted, of Dr. Everis's speech. I need not refer to the frequent anonymous Revision puffs with which all are familiar. I prefer larger game, and therefore charge home directly upon the whole Revision enterprise, that SECRESY, in all its more important practical operations (except the raising of money), is its deliberate, settled, and well-known policy. Now, gentlemen, when you denounce me for secresy in the matter of my notice, and claim for Revisionists that "they take their station openly and fairly before the public." you thereby proclaim your own folly and duplicity, as it were, from the house-top. Nay, more: you ruthlessly uncover the very nakedness of the darling enterprise which you profess to defend, and invite the public. prise which you profess to defend, and invite the pub-lic gaze to the foul exposure.

Further evidence of a want of ability and fidelity

Firther evidence of a want or ability and intenty in these men is at hand, but want of time compels me to pass it over. I cannot, however, wholly pass over Dr. Bell's brief paragraph in the Bulletin of Saturday, the 13th. Reader, did you ever know a blusterier that was good for anything? Be pleased, then, to look over this paragraph, from its blustering conclusion, and tell us if caption to its blustering conclusion, and tell us if you would feel safe in trusting the author of it in any position which would be likely to try a man's soul?

Look at its misrepresentations. I had not charged Dr. Bell at all with writing the anonymous notice of Dr. Everts's speech, and therefore could not have charged him "faisely" in that respect. The issue, if any, is between Dr. Everts and myself; why does Dr. Bell take it up without seeing Dr. Everts? Why, if he saw Dr. Everts, does he write as if he had not seen him? Why, in the true style of a specul pleuding dodger, does he narrow down his disclaimer to the writing of that particular anonymous report, when he had just been straining himself almost to dislocation in assuming attitudes of eloquent horror at "the anonymous" in general? Queni deus perdat, dementat. ral? Queni deus perdat, deinentat.
2d. We have from these gentlemen also au im-tant revelation [see Journal of the 10th] as to the ability and fidelity of the New York Revision Managers. It is this. Dr. Judd, we are told, "trumped up a pretendediciain for $1,000 upon the Bible Union," and although it was a "scandalous bilt," a "wile pretence," Dr. Cone and his co-managers "paid it by a contribution from their own pockets," Spencer Cone heading the subscription with $250. Cone heading the subscription with $250. From that moment Spencer Cone predicted that the Bible Union were to have trouble with O. B. Judd.

Here, reader, is the case, somewhat abbreviated, which our Louisville Revisionists present with their implied approbation in defence of their co-Revisionists of New York. Truly has it been said-

"To be weak is miserable Doing or suffering."

Then we are to believe that Dr. Cone and his as-Then we are to believe that Dr. Cone and his associate managers, from an unmanly fear of a public contest, submitted to a levy of black mail to the tune of $1,000. But this is not all. From the same unworthy motive they permitted the consummate vulum who exacted this black mail, knowing him to be such, to continue to occupy a high place in the service of the Bible Union! This, reader, is the DEFENCE which Dr. Bell & Co. of Louisville have put forth in behalf of the Revisionists of New York.

For my part, I prefer to believe Dr. Judd's account, because it is intrinsically more probable, and, at the same time, infinitely more creditable to Dr. Cone, as well as to himself, and not a whit more discreditable to any of the other parties concerned.

NATIONAL TRUNK EMPORIUM,
Corner Main and Fourth sts., Louisville, Ky.

I would respectfully invite the attention of merchants and others visiting the city to my large and clegant assortment of TRUNKS, which I am prepared to offer at least twenty-five PEE CENT. Lower than any other establishment in the city. My stock embraces a greater variety of Trunks than is kept by any other house in the Western country. Many of the styles are entirely new and cannot fail to please those in want of a Trunk both as regards price and quality. The many advantages which I peases over the other houses in the city, such as unautacturing my own boxes, finishing my own leather, importing my own material, dec., enable me to effer my trunks at much lower prices thau any other establishment either in this city or Cincinnati, Merchants and others will be consulting their own interests by giving me a call before making their purchases. Singular Circumstance.—As a son of Mr. Reinhart, residing at Upton, Franklin county, Pa., a lad about twelve years of agg, was passing along on the bank of the West Conocoheague creek, his attention was attracted to a boy, still less than himself, preparing baits for his hook and line, as he was ishing. When near laim, the boy suddenly manifested great alarm and fell back into the creek. Young Reinhart, with unusual presence of mind, immediately progured a pole and thrust the end of it into the water where the boy had fallen in, and, although he was so deep in the water as to be out of sight, yet he took hold of it, when young Reinhart drew him to the shore. He had scarce got him out ere he perceived the cause of the little fellow's alar m, which was that a large black snake, about four and a half feet in length, had wrapped itself tight around the boy's body.

Fortunately he had been using a knife for cutting baits, which he dropped when the snake first attack-SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCE .-- As a son of Mr. Reinbaits, which he dropped when the snake first attacked him. Picking it up, young Reinhart immediately applied it to his snakeship to release the little fellow m its coils; but so tight was it fastened around body that he had to insert the blade flatwise herhis body that he had to insert the blade flatwis tween the body of the boy and the snake, and turned the edge, and by a vigorous cut severed it in two. In doing this, however, he did not escape being himself bit in the tinger, without, however, being much injured therefrom, as the inflammation produced from the bite was slight. The snake had wrapped itself nearly twice around the body of the boy. This is certainly a singular circumstance, and owing to the presence of young Reinhart the lad was saved from a premature death.

SUPPLIED AND THE PARTY OF THE P

The many friends of the Rev. T. A. Merrick, of Paris, Kr., will be glad to learn that he has been honored, by election, as a corporate member of the American Oriental Society, which met at Rosten on the 20th ult.

This society is an association of Oriental acholars, so select that it has no honorary member in America, hat four in Great Britain, and several engaged in Eastern rescarches on the continent of Europe and Asia.

Among its members we recognize the names of the late Prof. Stuart, Rev. Dr. Jarvis, Prof. Edward Rohinson, Pres. Woolsey of "Old Yale," Rev. Dr. Hawks, Rev. Prof. Turner, Hon. Edwd. Evercti; the greatest modern Hebratist of his day, Gesenius; his distinguished successor, Ridded ger; Ewald, Huuboldt, and other orientalists of celebrity, all of whom are on terms of correspondece with each other and with the oriental societies of Europe and Asia.

The Rev. Mr. Merrick is at present the faithful Pastor of the Episcopal Church in the county ceat of Bourbon, and has as well by his assidnous ministerial abors as by his talents, proven himself worthy of the high honor and commondation thus bestowed. Although yet young in years, be is himself a Hehraix and classical scholar of fine shifties. His modesty, as when we knew him in days of boybood, would prevent him from civing publicity to the commendation of which we are informed by a private letter. But merit should have its reward, and more especially when not somebi for, as honors are in these times of adulation and fulsome praise.

"He who honors merit in another, honors himself,"

"He who honors merit ln another, honors himself."

Probable Arrest of General Walker.—Commodore

Probable Arrest of General Walker.—Commodore Vanderbilt has had a capias issued for the arrest of Gen. Walker, charged with having combined with Messrs. C. K. Garrison and Charles Morgan, to break up the accessory Transit steamship line. The Commodore is, of course, well aware that General Walker's pocket must be completely empty. He has had the writ issued as a matter of form. The effect of the writ, though not pecuniarily remunerative to the Commodore, will probably compel the General to show himself before a New York court.

The entertainment of the National Opera Troupe at Concert Hall last night was, as we predicted, eminently successful. The young gentlemen composing the band sing not only very finely, but with great accuracy. The instrumental music was also executed with much precision. Mr. Gardirir has a splendid voice. DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY - Loss of Life Whirlwind in New York-Singular Phenomena .-Several violent whirlwinds visited different parts of the State of New York last Saturday, causing great damage to dwellings and fences, and destroying some lives. The following we abridge from the Utica Herald, of Monday last:

Utica Herald, of Monday last:

On Saturday afternoon very many of our citizens noticed the appearance of a very remarkable formation of nebulous or cloudy substance extending from the heavens nearly to the earth, where it seemed to diminish almost to a point, but expanding gradually as it ascended, until the peculiar form was lost in the clouded sky. This remarkable and tunnel-like column of cloudy mist passed over the city about 40 clock, and was remarked not only by its peculiar appearance, but by a rushing, buzzing noise, as it swept off in the direction of Deerfield. It soon passed from sight, and was musde the sportive conversation for the hour, without the least just conception of what the body consisted, or of its destructive power.

At Mr. N. Budlong's the mysterious agency settled to the earth, and in an instance scattered a baru to pieces, and tore up several trees on the opposite side of the road; next the well house of Mrs. (Ichardson, which was standing directly in a South-easterly line from where it first touched the earth, was demoished, and quite a number of trees in her orchard were destroyed; the path of destruction then tended in a direct line to the South-east, as marked hy numerous prostrated trees and riddled houses, until it approached the Baptist personage house, occupied by a Mr. Mr. W. Informs as that he was engaged in his garden at proached the Baptist personage house, occupied by a Mr. John Warren.

Mr. W. informs us that he was engaged in his garden at about 4 o'clock and saw the approach of a cloudy object, as it threw up the trees. As its course pointed in the direction of his own house he ran to the dwelling, caught two of his older children, and called to his wife to save the other three and herself by following him to the cellar. The husband had descended two or three steps with his charge, and the wife, with au infant and two older children had reached the cellar door when the house was struck. The whole frame work was lifted from the stone foundation; the entire wood work above the first thoor was carried some twenty feet and then dropped in grand perfection of ruin, while the first floor with the shepers attached, which caught in the foundation, was finally turned roof-like over the entire mass.

Mr. Warren, with two of the children, remained in the

the entire wood work above the first floor was carried some twenty feet and then dropped in grand perfection of ruin, while the first floor with the sleepers attached, which caught in the foundation, was finally turned roof-like over the entire mass.

Mr. Warreu, with two of the chiliren, remained in the cellar enclosure, witbout injury; Mrs. Warreu was found on the ground about tenfeet from the cellar door, almost entirely stripped of her clothing, and so soverely Injured about her neck and body that she died witbin an bour after the calamity, although entirely conscious; her Infaut was found near by and almost entirely free from injury, yet utterly destinate of clothing; a little boy who was following his mother to the cellar is now lying unconscious from the wounds he received in the common wreck. His recovery is very doubtful; an older girl e-caped without any injury. The dwelling was two stories, f8x25 feet, and substantially huilt: In rear of it was a barn, distant obout five rods, 25x25 feet, which was iterally shivered into spillners.

Next in the dne south-casterly line of its course it uprooted several large trees, scattered the fences, crossed theroad and demolished a large barn, belonging to Mr. John M. Budlong. This huilding was of recent and very substantial build, and 35 by 50 feet npon its base, yet the destructive element tore it to pieces, scattered the fences, crossed theroad and row with the continuous directions, and actually taking up an iron cylinder threshing machine, weighing perhaps four hundred pounds, and deposited it at least eighty feet from the barn. A cow helonging to Mr. B., standing near the harn, was killed without any apparent outward wound. About eighty rods further on in a direct line, a smaller ban beionging to the same genethenan was demolished, and what is a little singular in this instance, but little of the material of wbich it was constructed is to he found anywhere. A few shivered boards and timbers slone attest to its previous existence. The dwelling of Mr. Budlong

A Terrible Whirluind—Probable Loss of Life—Buildings Unroofed—Trees Upturned—Barns, Shovels and Tree-tops Jiving through the air—Immense Loss of Property—The Comet supposed to have struck.

During the predigious storm of rain which deluged the earth on Saturday afternoon, one of the most remarkable and destructive whirlwinds we have ever heard of visited the section of country lying to the south-west of this city, in the town of Oswego.

The tornado commenced at a point five miles south-west of the city, near the residence of Mr. Peter Simmons. During the storm two large clouds were observed rushing together with immense force; the noise of their collision resembled the report of a cannon, and was heard at a considerable distance. The wind seems to have leaped from the clouds, and descended towards the earth; the entire roof of a harn belonging to Mr. Simmons was taken off, and the fragments, hoards, shingles, and pieces of rafters strewed along for the distance of a mile and a quarter.

The whirlwind passed on and next struck the dwelling house of Mr. James Cole, tore out the gable end and took up the building, actually turning it half round on its foundation! Incredible as this appears, it is strictly true, and the front door of the house which formerly opened towards the street, now opens into a lot adjoining the yard. Mr. and Mrs. Cole were absent at the time, leaving two children in the house. It may well be supposed that on their return they were considerably astonished at the appearance of things, though overloved to find their children unharmed except from fright. The wind having spent its malice and fury at this point, departed on its journey to the eastward. The orchard of Mr. Oliver Poster was next in its course. This was compictely prostrated, some of the trees taken up and tossed hither and thilther at the spert of the destroyer, and the tops of the trees tent flying through the air at a great distance.

The whirwind having thus executed its purpose in des troying projectly, next made an attempt upon life, with hut too feartui success. A German teamster, named Martin Schwader, in the employ of Mr. Furniss, who owns a saw mill in that region, was loading staves in a wasgon. Old Mr. Furnis was handing him the staves while the teamster took them and stowed them away in the wasgon. The attention of the two men was attracted by a singular noise, when, looking mywards, they saw a common barn shovel flying through the air over their heads, at about thirty feet from the ground, and twirling around in the most singular manner.

cention of the two men was attracted by a singular noise, when, looking upwards, they saw a common barn shovel flying through the air over their heads, at about thirty feet from the ground, and twirling around in the most singular manner.

Naturally enough their eyes were riveted upon this remarkable phenomenon, and tho next instant a small maple tree, standing nearly its lents from the wagon, was caught by the wind and the top of it thrown directly across the wagon, knocking the teamster down upon the staves, and throwing Mr. Furniss to the ground. The latter was but slightly injured, and in someten minutes help was at hand. The top of the tree was cutaway, and the unfortunate German found lying on the staves, which were covered by his blood from the mouth and head. He was taken up Insensible, and medical aid procured from this city as soon as possible. At last accounts he was still insensible, and it is thought he cannot survive.

After this blloody exploit, the tornado sped on to a wood lot of about ten acres, owned by Gilbert & Penfield. Throughout the whole ten acres there is not a tree left standing, while their tops were broken off and carried through the air to an incredible distance. Mr. Gilbert perceiving the devastation, and every kind of movable thing slying through the air, rushed into the house, and called npon the family to come out as soon as possible, "for the comer had struck, and their time upon earth was short." He is probably considerably astonished to find himself on this sublunary sphere to-day, after having fully made up his mixed to leave if for—he knew not where.

Not satisfied yet, the whiriwind next attacked two barns Leonging to Mr. Henry Rowe, and utterly destroyed both. One of finem was taken from the "underplinings" and carried bodily about four rods, where it fell to the earth a heap of ruins. The other barn was broken in pieces, and strewhald the same idea concerning this remarkable phenomenon. Mounting his horse he rode as "uickly as possible to Fitch's Corners, and inurriedly

There he was welcomed in an address by Judge Phillips, and with cheers by the people. His response was very brief, in consequence of the prevalence of a heavy rain-storm. Subsequently he was conveyed to the Lafarge Hotel, The gathering to see him was immense and the enthusiasm great.

nees to send them against the Mayor's forcerly resorts of the city, and waited until the military arrived in the Park.

The appearance of the National Gnard somewhat cooied the ardor of the nob, and the Mayor, under their Influence, allowed himself to be visited by the Coroner, and taken into custody. Counsel were present, however, with sureties, and the Mayor was hailed without leaving his office, his brother, lenjamin Wood, and John Fitzpatrick becoming his bondmen in $5,000. This writ being served, the Sheriff then went into the Mayor's office with the Recorder's warrant, and declared the Mayor under arrest. A habeas corpus had, however, been prepared, issued by City Judge Russeli, and requiring the Sheriff to keep him in his custody until the matter was passed upon. Judge Russell took care to be out of the way that the writ would not be argued, and the Mayor could not be lawfully taken before the Recorder on that warrant.

The Sheriff reported this state of the case to the Recorder, and said he would keep the Mayor, who was still in his office, in custody until Judge Russell to burn the Recorder, and said he would keep the Mayor, who was still in his office, in custody until Judge Russel to burn the Recorder's house, as well as his office, and Mr. Conover's house, &c., it was thought advisable to keep a military force in readiness during the night, which was done.

The Indignation of citizeus against the Mayor and his political watchmen and shoulder-hitters was Intense during the day, and last evening it aimost amounted to the formation of a Viglance Committee.

The Board of Aldermen met in the afternoon at 5 o' clock, and confirmed the Mayor's nomination of Charles Develiu as Street Commissioner. Mr. Develin is the leading street comfractor, and has now very heavy contracts with the city. His fitness for the office and the motives in placing him there will be seen from that circumstance. Mr. Develin was escorted by some of the Mayor's watchmen, immediately after being sworn in last evening, to the Street C the Street Commissioner's office, and declared by the mob obe duly inaugurated. Mr. Conover will contest his right.

The coroner had warrants for ex-Lient, Bennett and Mr. Turner, hut could not find either to arrest them up to last evening.

DECISIONS OF THE COURT OF APPEALS OF KENTUCKY. SUMMEE TERM, 1887.
Reported by John M. Harlan, Attorney at Law,
Frankfort, Kentucky.

Reported by John M. Harlan, Attorney at Law,
Frankfort. Kentucky.

Love vs. Harris, dec., from Pulsski Circuit.
This action was brought by the appellant to recover the sum of one hundred and forty dulars, the value of a horse which was lost by him and won by appellees, in a bet or wager on the result of the vote in Kentucky in the last Presidential election, which horse was received by the appellees, and by them converted to their own use.

A demnrer to the petition was sustained in the Circuit Court. Whether the facts stated in the petition constitute a canse of action was the only question presented for the consideration of this Court.

Judge Duvali delivered the opinion of the Court.
Held.—That the demurrer was properly sustained. An act of the Legislature of Kentucky (Session acts 1%4, page 72) provides, in substance, that any person who shall bet anything of value upon an election under the constitution and laws of this State, or of the United States, shall the sum of the consideration of this court of money or other thing so bet, or its value, or anything therefor, the sum of money so received, or the value of anything else so received, shall be forfeited to the Commonwealth, and may be recovered by any appropriate action, in the name of the Commonwealth, before the Circuit Court." &c. The second section of this act provides that the fines arising under the act, or the amount which may be recovered as aforesald, shall so, two-thirds to the common school fund and the remaining third to the use of the attorney for the Commonwealth, or county storney, where they shall procure a conviction of the offender.

Whatever may have been the rights of the plaintiff, under the law as it stood prior to the passage of this act, to third to the use of the attorney for the Commonwealth, or county attorney, where they shall procure a conviction of the offender.

Whatever may have been the rights of the plaintif, under the law as it stood prior to the passage of this act, to recover the value of the thing lost by him, as alieged, it is very clear that such right is taken away by the latter act, and vested in the Commonwealth alone for the use of the school fund, dec.

It was contended on behalf of appellant that he could maintain this action under sections I and 2 of chapter on gaming, Rev. Stat, (page 349). Whether this position be correct or not, the court did not deem it necessary to decide, since in their opinion, if such an action as this could be maintained by an individual under these sections of the Revised Statntes, the right to maintain it is taken away by the act of 1554, and vested in the Commonwealth. The right to recover the money or thing lost cannot exist at the same time in the Commonwealth and an individual. Such could never have been the Intention of the Legislature.

Without deciding thequestion, the court say that it may be well questioned whether the sections of the Revised Statntes on gaming above referred to can be regarded as embracing a bet or a wager on an a election. No penalty for the specific offense of betting on elections is provided for in these sections. The terms employed are broad and comprehensive, but its dennnelations are directed against the offense of gaming, and the court would heeltate to determine that an election, under the constitution and laws of the United States, could properly be called a "game," within the meaning of the Revised Statntes or in any other sense.

Gully vs Ray, &c., from Garrard Circuit.

The widow of Appellant brought this action to recover dower in a tract of land which her husband had in possession for a number of years, but which he sold and disposed of previous to his death.

Gully settled on the land in question in 1806, and subsequently purchased it by executory contract from Anderson of previous to his death.

Gully settled on the land in question in 1806, and subsequently purchased it by executory contract from Anderson and Vanclever. The exact time of this purchase does not appear from the testimony. Enough, however, appears to show that it was subsequent to 1813. In 1824 he sold or exchanged it to a man named Jones, and put him into possession of it, having only an equitable title to it at the time. Afterward, in the year 1895, Jones having died, and his heirs desiring to obtain the legal title to it, procured, through their agent, the execution of a deed of conveyance by Anderson and Vanclever to Guily, the plaintiff's inshand, and one from the latter to themselves. Both deeds were executed on the same day, and the title was conveyed to Gully in order that he might convey it to the helrs of his vendee with a covenant of warranty. Under these circumstances, is Gully's widow entitled to dower in the land?

Judge Slmpson delivered the opinion of the Court:

Heid—According to the principles of the common law, the wife was entitled to dower in those lands only of the husband of which the husband had the legal title. But since the law in respect to trust estates was changed by statute, it has been decided that the widow is cutilide to dower where the busband had such an equitable title as would have authorised a Court of Chancery to compel the vendor to convey to inin the legal title (4 Mon. 28%; 4 J. J. Mar, 67). But she is not entitled to dower in land to which her husband had an equitable title merely, and which he sold and disposed of hefore his death. She is entitled to dower in such equitable estates merely as beionged to him at the time of his death (Ilamilton vs. Hinghes, 6 J. J. Mar. 552).

at the time of his death (Hamilton vs. Hinghes, 6J. J. Mar. 582).

According to these principles the appellant is not entitled to dower in this case, nuless she became entitled to it in consequence of the convey ance of the legal title to her husband by his vendors, in order that he might be enabled to convey it to the heirs of his vendee.

A widow is not dowahle of land, of which her husband was not houseficially selzed during the coverture. In conformity with this principle it has been decided that she is not entitled to dower in land which the husband had before the marriage sold by executory contract, either verbal or written, although he did not convey the legal title to the purchaser until after he was married. (Dean's heirs va. Mitchell's heirs, 4J. J. Mar. 4St. Oidham wa. Sale, &c., 1 B. Mon. 77). Now, in this case, the husband had partied with his equitable title to the issued and with the possession of it, before he obtained the legal title. It's held the legal title in trust—It conferred ou him no beneficial Interest in the land, but was acquired for the benefit of, and conveyed immediately by his deed to the heirs of his vendee. It was not such a beneficial seizure, therefore, as entitles the wife to dower.

The same doctrine applies when the husband takes a con-

The same doctrine applies when the husband takes a con-The same doctrine applies when the hisband takes a conveyance in fee, and at the same time mortgages the land back to the grantor, or to a third person, to secure it have ment of the burchase money. Bower cannot be a lade as against rights under that mortgage. The hasband is not deemed sufficiently seized by such an instantaneous passage of the title in and out of him to entitle his wife to dower as against the mortgage. (Hobbrook vs. Finney, 4 Mass, Rep. 569; Stow vs. Tillit, 15 Johns 459).

The purchaser is not estopped by the busband's deed from explaining the nature of his seizure, and showing that it was not of such a character as entitles his wife to dower in the land.
